BUSINESS MAN IN FINE CONDITION

LITTLE ROCK GROCER WAS RESTORED TO HEALTH FOUR YEARS AGO—IS STILL FEELING FINE.

"Tanlac is my stand-by, for it restored me to health four years ago and I have kept in the pink of condition ever since by taking an occasional dose," said Paul Snodgrass, 223 West Capital street, Little Rock, Ark. Mr. Snodgrass has been in the fancy grocery business for thirty years and is known as a man whose word is as good as his bond.

"In all my life I have never known a medicine like Tanlac. When I began taking it I was in such an awful weak, run-down condition I was hardly able to attend to business. I had no appetite for a long time and the little I managed to eat did not digest properly and caused me no end of trouble. I was nervous in the daytime and restless at night, and I felt so miserable in the mornings it was all I could do to force myself to get up and go to the store.

"I began to improve almost from the first dose of Tanlac and it was not long before I was my old self again and feeling just fine. It built me up wonderfully; why, in a few weeks' time I gained fourteen pounds in weight. There is no doubt about it, Tanlac certainly delivers the goods."

Tanlac is sold in Statesboro by W. H. Ellis Co., druggists—adv.

SHORT COURSE HELD AT AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

The corn club, pig club, canning club and all other club boys and girls, together with their county agents, came to the agricultural school for a week's intensive instruction in their work. All parts of the First Congressional District, from Brunswick to Waynesboro, were represented, the largest delegation coming from Tattnall county with their home demonstration agent, Miss Maggie Betha.

The instructors for the course were professors from the State College of Agriculture, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Dupont Powder Co., the Williamson Stump Puller Co., and the local agricultural faculty. State Club Agent G. V. Cunningham made the opening address and later J. Phil Campbell, director of all extension work, talked to the boys and girls.

The outstanding feature of the second day's program was the land clearing demonstration with dynamite and by stump puller. G. H. Alford, of the Dupont Powder Co., demonstrated the use of dynamite in preparing holes for setting fruit trees, and later staged a stump blasting scene. The Williamson Stump Puller Co., of Cordell, demonstrated at the same time the use of a stump puller in clearing land. The future farmers of this section had a real chance to see improved methods of clearing land, and from their actual farm experience were able to compare it with the methods common in Southeast Georgia. Their real interest was shown when one of the boys asked the Dupont man if he could "blow up" a tree as well as a stump. Mr. Alford replied by blasting one of the large pine trees that stood nearby.

The girls spent most of their time in the domestic science laboratory learning cooking and sewing. Even with such a short period of practice these girls will go back to their homes with many new ideas of cooking and will actually know how to prepare many choice dishes from the food that grows on their own farms. During one day of the short course these girls prepared and served a picnic lunch to the entire crowd in the good old-fashioned "dinner on the ground" way.

A STATESBORO INTERVIEW.

Mrs. Mitchell Tells Her Experience. The following brief account of an interview with a Statesboro woman six years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

Mrs. J. G. Mitchell, 29 College St., says: "For a great many years I had been a constant sufferer from kidney trouble. I was caused annoyance by my kidneys acting irregularly and bladder trouble. I also had dropsical swellings. Doan's Kidney Pills relieved all these ailments. I can say that in my opinion, Doan's are a fine kidney remedy for they have never failed to set just as represented." (Statement given May 22, 1914.)

On March 6, 1918, Mrs. Mitchell added: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally whenever I feel the need of any kidney medicine. Doan's always do what is claimed for them and they never fail to relieve kidney trouble. I think it highly of Doan's as when I last recommended them. My friends of each week. My last former recommendation holds good." 60¢ at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. (No. 2)

CATT'S COMPANY IS HAILED INTO COURT

FLORIDA'S EX-GOVERNOR WAS HEAD OF PROPOSED CHAIN OF STORES.

Atlanta, August 29.—Sidney J. Catts, former governor of Florida; F. L. Jeter and the American Purchasing company, were made the defendants in an attachment filed Saturday in the Fulton superior court by J. H. Hogue, of Villa Rica, Ga., in an effort to recover $150 said to have been lost by the plaintiff in an alleged fraudulent business scheme.

According to the charges made by Mr. Hogue, the American Purchasing company advertised last year for store managers in the south-eastern district for a chain of stores to be named the "Consumer-Owned Stores," and to be operated on a profit-sharing basis. Applicants for these positions were required to put up a collateral of $150 as evidence of their good faith, and were promised a salary of $3,000 per year as manager.

Mr. Hogue said he paid the American Purchasing company the $150 and after some months, when the local branch had not fulfilled their contract in placing him as manager of a store, he asked that the money be refunded to him and met with a refusal. He immediately took out an attachment to levy on the furniture of the offices at 218 Atlanta Trust Company Building, but found that the furniture had been moved, and the local branch apparently dissolved.

S. G. McLendon, secretary of state, and chairman of the Georgia securities commission, said Saturday night that representatives of the American Purchasing company had been called before the commission three or four months ago, and that the commission ordered the company to discontinue its operations in Georgia until it applied for and received legal authority to operate in the state.

Jacksonville, Fla., August 29.—Former Governor Sidney J. Catts disposed of his interest in the American Purchasing company several months ago, it is understood here. Mr. Catts, last October when he was governor, it was pointed out tonight, advertised in papers throughout Florida for men to serve as store managers, declaring that "when my term as governor of Florida expires January 4, 1921, I will represent a corporation establishing retail stores throughout the south" and that "a large number of men will be required as store managers." Applicants were directed to address "Sidney J. Catts, box 1198, Atlanta, Ga."

FROM CREDIT TO CASH

On and After September 1st, we will sell For Cash Only!!

To The Public:

After much thought and very careful consideration, and summing up the judgment of many of our representative customers, we have decided to change our business on September 1st to a strictly cash system.

Beginning on Thursday morning, September 1st, 1921, and continuing until January 1st, 1922, we will sell strictly for CASH, produce taken on same basis as CASH.

Eleven years experience in the mercantile business has been sufficient to convince us that we can sell goods for less profit by doing a strictly cash business. We want to sell you goods as low as you can buy them anywhere; and if you will give us an opportunity during the next four months—and we are sure you will—we will convince you that you can save from ten to twenty-five per cent on your fall and winter purchases by buying them for CASH at TRAPNELL-MIKELL COMPANY'S.

For the reason that most of our customers pay CASH during the fall, we know that a large majority of you to whom we are sending this letter, will approve of our cash system, for a great many of you have already told us you would approve it and we know you will be glad to welcome the advent of a first-class department store with a strict cash system, where you can go and buy your needs and know your dollars are doing their full duty.

If you will watch our advertisements and circulars, visit our store often and keep in touch with our values, you will be convinced that you will save many, many dollars by buying at Trapnell-Mikell Company's.

We intend to maintain our past reputation for giving good, reputable, stylish and quality Merchandise like we have given you in the past. We are only going to give you more of it for the same money, or the same for less money.

ONE PRICE TO ALL! Everything will be marked in plain figures at a very low price. Very much cheaper than any person can charge them to you. Your dollar is worth as much as anybody's, and it will do as much as TRAPNELL-MIKELL COMPANY'S as anybody's dollar will do anywhere.

In conclusion we beg to say, this system applies to every one who buys at our store, as any deviation from this rule would soon put us back in the same old rut. Please do not consider this move a reflection on your ability to pay debts. We do not intend it that way. We have had heretofore, and have now many accounts on our books which we consider gilt-edge, but we do believe that all our customers and friends will benefit by our new system. We are doing this for our mutual benefit. You will benefit by being able to save many dollars on your purchases and we will benefit by being able to turn our goods into cash, discount and meet our bills promptly, strengthen our credit and be in shape to serve you better next year.

Hoping and trusting that we will be able to serve you to your entire satisfaction, and thanking you for all past favors, and wishing you a bountiful harvest, we remain

Yours very truly,

TRAPNELL-MIKELL COMPANY.

UTILIZING GROUND ROCK PHOSPHATES

EXPERIMENTS PROVE GREATEST BENEFIT IS DERIVED THROUGH COMPOSTING THE GROUND ROCK.

The source of raw phosphates as a source of plant-food phosphorus has been generally overlooked in the south. Since a large portion of the farming area of this section is conveniently located with respect to various grades of these mineral phosphates, their value in agriculture should be more generally recognized. While the high grade minerals are mostly used for manufacture of acid phosphate, it is not an economical process at the present to use the lower grades for this purpose. And these low grade materials carrying from twenty to thirty per cent total phosphoric acid are available in the ground form for direct use in agriculture.

At the Georgia Experiment Station, comparisons have been made of rock phosphates and acid phosphates for cotton fertilization. Rock phosphates from Tennessee and Florida compared favorably with acid goods when applied continuously for three or even two years, although the soluble acid phosphate gave higher yields of cotton than the insoluble finely ground rock phosphate with the first-year treatment. In other sections of the country the greatest returns from the natural phosphates have been obtained after applications over a longer period of years, and we may reasonably expect the same results for many of the soils in the southern states.

The mineral phosphates are entirely in the insoluble form and benefits of direct applications are considerably delayed, as our experiments have shown. By treatment with organic matter such as that in compost, manure, beds, or stable litter, some of the phosphorus is changed to the soluble or available form. Composting for six or eight weeks with rich soil and cottonseed meal has been found to increase the plant food value of the mineral phosphates, although considerable loss of ammonia from the cottonseed meal occurred.

The following yields of seed cotton per acre obtained from use of the mixture of rock phosphates and cottonseed meal, when applied at the rate of eight hundred pounds per acre:

Mixture of cottonseed meal and phosphate, rock not composted, 980 lbs.

Mixture of cottonseed meal and phosphate rock, composted, 1,135 lbs. The composted material produced in this experiment 155 pounds more seed cotton per acre than the same amount of material not composted.

While composting with costly ammoniacs such as cottonseed meal is not advisable on account of nitrogen losses, other available materials might well be used. By composting with animal manure the solubility of the phosphorus is also increased. Where natural phosphates can be obtained it should be mixed with the farm manure by sprinkling around the stables and stalls frequently. In this way the value of the manure is greatly increased.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Having again entered the mercantile business in Statesboro, I take this method of announcing to my friends and former patrons that I am ready to serve them and will appreciate a continuance of their patronage which they have so generously given me in past years.

In order that I may bring my business into shape, I have deemed it best to adopt a strictly cash system from now until January 1st, after which time I hope to be in position to extend to my patrons the usual courtesies of the past.

In the meantime I am selling goods for the cash at wonderfully attractive prices, and invite a share of the public patronage, guaranteeing to treat every patron with the utmost fairness and an earnest endeavor to satisfy every reasonable demand.

I expect to leave in a few days for the northern markets to lay in new merchandise for the coming year, and hope to be able to bring to my patrons a line of merchandise which will prove worthy of their patronage.

Bear in mind also that I am buying cotton and paying the highest possible prices. Statesboro is a great cotton market, equal to the best. Other buyers besides myself stand ready at all times to bid on your cotton and treat you fairly in the matter of price. The Statesboro market offers opportunities which cannot be excelled.

Very truly,

LITTLE FOLKS' PARTY.
Monday afternoon little Misses Martha Kate and Carol Anderson were joint hostesses at a pretty party at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Anderson, on Zetterover avenue, the occasion being their eighth and sixth birthdays.

The lawn was transformed into a merry play land where the little guests with their hostesses enjoyed various games. A kitty contest was an interesting feature, and little Allie Whitehead won the prize. Later dainty refreshments were served and the favors were bouncing balls.

FOR MRS. VARN.
Thursday afternoon Mrs. A. A. Flanders entertained at her home on Zetterover avenue in compliment to Mrs. Rauland Varn, of Ludowici. Mrs. Varn was, before her marriage, Miss Anna Hughes.

The spacious porch where the guests were entertained was attractively decorated with a wreath of ferns and garden flowers.

Two contests were thoroughly enjoyed, a picture contest and "Anagrams."

The guests besides the honor guest were Misses Elma Wimberly, Louise Hughes, Gursie Lee, Sadie Lee, Clyde Lisey, Mattie Lively, Eunice Lester, Nellie and Mary Lee Jones, Kathleen McCran, Mesdames J. D. Leo, J. J. Liffey, W. M. Johnson, Laurie McLeod, B. V. Collins, C. E. Romington, J. A. Addison, Nellie Allen, W. D. Kennedy, J. E. Oxendine, A. J. Mooney, P. G. Franklin, C. P. Olliff, J. W. WHAT "NEOSHO PLAN" MEANS TO A TOWN

GIVES BRIEF OUTLINE OF ITS INTENTIONS.

The business men of Statesboro are to have presented to them for adoption or rejection a business proposition which possesses far-reaching possibilities for business betterment. When Mr. G. R. Lowe, the originator of the "Neosho Plan," comes to Statesboro on October 10th to lay before our business leaders an outline of his plan, we are going to be called upon to decide whether we shall accept or reject the opportunity to advance. We shall be loth to hurriedly choose our line of action. Before we decide, we want to know all that is possible for us to know about the meaning of the plan. For that reason—so that our business men may have some insight into the meaning of it—we append herewith a rather complete outline written by Mr. Lowe himself:

The Neosho Plan is one of intensive co-operation for the purpose of retail trade through means of developing a better understanding and relationship between the people who make business life in the country town and those who make up the retail population. The work is based upon the practical application of the Golden Rule in business; with the thought of putting across to both elements, town and country, the ideas that confidence and good will are the most important factors. Here let me inject this one thought: not one theoretical statement is advanced, but simple, practical ideas that have worked in Neosho for nearly eight years, not only have worked, but are working now in Neosho, the scores of other towns scattered over some sixteen states. With these thoughts in mind and heart, we are presenting the plan in an interesting way. I have divided the work into three different units.

The first unit is "getting the farmer better acquainted with the farmer." It has for its reason the getting-together of the farmers for the discussion of their own work, just as you and I attend these conventions in order to talk over things that are of interest directly to us; talk "shop" if you please. If it is good business for business men to talk shop, isn't it just as reasonable to presume that it is equally good business for the farmer to do the same? So a community auction sale is made possible by the merchants for the exclusive use of the farmer. On the first Monday in each month the people in the country are invited to fetch to Neosho such articles as surplus live stock, used farm implements, second-hand household goods, or anything they desire to dispose of. We sell them through the auctioneer, the farmer paying the auctioneer's fee. This is a business proposition, gentlemen, philanthropy, and the farmer is made to feel that this is his sale, and he must run it clean and above reproach keeping out the by-stander and the unscrupulous trader. That it pays in dollars and cents is shown in Neosho. In over a six months period (from mid-winter to mid-summer) an average of $3,700.00 a month was exchanged through this community auction sale. I think any business man can readily see that such an amount of money turned loose in a country town on a single day is quite beneficial to that town. Naturally, we are compelled what we set out to do in the beginning; we brought folk to town who were not accustomed to coming, got them acquainted and familiar, then we started a sort of reunion, that has been the means of bringing them back month after month. They don't always come back just to buy or sell, but to renew acquaintances; and THAT is what we are striving for; to make the town a rendezvous once a month for men interested in farming.

The second of these units is getting a better understanding built up among the business fellows themselves; and, again, we hang out the dollars mark as the incentive; MORE SALES, the thing the merchant is vitally desirous of. In every town we find, as we did in Neosho, that trade is limited or confined to a rather limited area and that business as a whole couldn't expand and grow if we didn't extend that area.

On the first Monday of each month there is held a Golden Rule Sale, in

GEORGIA GETS WORLD'S GREATEST BIBLE SCHOLAR

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 7.—One of the greatest religious leaders, Dr. Campbell Morgan of London, England, has selected Athens, Georgia, as his home in order that his children may enjoy the educational advantages of the state.

"This is my third visit to Athens during the twenty-five years since I made my first voyage to America," said Dr. Morgan in discussing his choice of the University city as a home, "and I think it is an ideal place in which to live and educate my children."

Dr. Morgan, who is known as one of the greatest, if not the greatest Bible scholars in the world, will hold a two weeks Bible conference for ministers of all denominations in March. He will move to Athens September 15th and will put his son in the University of Georgia, and his two younger daughters in Lucy Cobb Institute.

Dr. Morgan who was formerly pastor of Westminster Chapel in London, is greatly interested in the history of our times. He is a personal friend of Lloyd George and other world leaders in politics and statesmanship.

FINDS BIG SHORTAGE IN GEORGIA COTTON

BROWN HAS DECIDED THAT
CROP WILL BE 100,000 BALES
BELOW PREVIOUS ESTIMATE.

Atlanta, Sept. 6.—That the world is on the verge of a cotton famine, the extent of which has been unequalled in history, is the opinion of Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, after a careful survey of the situation.

"With information I have gathered in going about Georgia the last few days, and that which has come to me from other states, I am of the opinion that 1921 will see the biggest cotton shortage we have ever known, followed by a severe cotton famine in 1922 and 1923," said Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown, today.

"Therefore I feel safe in saying that with the bill recently passed by congress, providing a billion dollars for agricultural credits, through the war finance corporation, coupled with the least visible crop ever produced, positively means higher cotton than anyone anticipates. There was never any excuse for the extremely low prices we have had, and if it had not been for the deflation of credit, cotton would never have gone to such low levels."

"The activity and life in cotton manufacturing today means that the world has gone without cotton as long as it can and is now demanding it. Prices of manufactured goods are strengthening, and will continue to do so. Higher prices for raw cotton are bound to follow."

"As to my previous estimate of 700,000 bales for Georgia, I am of the opinion that it will be nearer 600,000. I am just back from a visit to the Georgia experiment station where I found conditions deplorable. There, where cotton has been grown by experts and treated with calcium arsenate, in addition to other methods of fighting the boll weevil, land which formerly made a bale to the acre, will this year, yield only one bale to five acres. It is easy to see that this means in sections which have not had expert attention."

The incident got into the newspapers, and Mr. Thompson came in for much criticism. Some of the papers editorially announced the resignation of an epicurean luxury and cited ancient Rome history in support of their contention that the bath tub was a device to be shunned.

Medical authorities denounced the bath tub as dangerous to health and vigorously attacked it. One result was that in 1845 the common council of Philadelphia considered an ordinance prohibiting bathing between Nov. 1 and March 15, and the measure failed of passage by two votes. In the same year the Virginia legislature put off the bill to ban bath tubs in a futile effort to change the idea which was then rapidly spreading over the country. In Hartford, Conn., Providence, R. I., Charleston and Wilmington, S. C., very heavy water rates were prescribed for those who had bath tubs in their homes. In 1845, the office city of Boston made bathing unlawful, except on advice of a physician, but the ordinance was eventually repealed. Strange that nobody fought it as interfering with personal liberty.

But the worst was yet to come for the opponents of the bath tub. It remained for a president of the United States, Millard Fillmore, to give the innovation recognition and respectability. While he was vice president he visited Cincinnati on a stump tour, and was there introduced to the bath tub which was doubt displayed to him as one of the sights of the town. He went so far as to bathe in it, and was so taken with the novel idea that when he came president, he had a bath tub installed in the White House. For this he was bitterly criticized and accused of trying to ape English customs.

It seems almost incredible that so short time ago the bath tub was under the ban.

BIG BANK TO LEND MONEY ON COTTON

ATLANTA BANK ANNOUNCES
PLAN TO LOAN TO PLANTERS
AND ENCOURAGE ORDERLY MARKETING.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 5.—Of extraordinary interest in banking and cotton circles of Georgia and the south is the announcement of the Fourth National Bank of Atlanta, which has just been made here, that it is prepared and able to lend 75 per cent of the market value of cotton under certain conditions.

The prompt and broad service offered and outlined by the bank, perhaps the most comprehensive yet made public in the south, is as follows:

No cotton will be accepted as collateral that grades below low middling, the lowest tenderable grade on the New York Cotton Exchange. The amount of the original advance will be 75 per cent of the actual market value of the cotton at the time the loan is negotiated. The customer must agree to maintain 25 per cent margin at all times. The rate on these loans will be 7 per cent.

Warehouse receipts must be issued by a warehouse whose financial standing, management and method of operation are satisfactory to the bank in Atlanta and to the inspector of the Federal Reserve Bank. Preference will be given to warehouses organized and bonded under the U. S. warehouse law.

Warehouse receipts must be in negotiable form, reciting that cotton will be delivered only upon surrender of the receipt properly indorsed. However, receipt states the commodity is deliverable to the holder of the receipt, no endorsement is necessary. Receipts must plainly indicate the identity of each bale of cotton, and must also state specifically the amount of advances made against the cotton; or recite that no advances have been made by the warehouseman.

All cotton must be fully covered by specific insurance policies, in acceptable companies, with loss clause, either payable to the bank in Atlanta, or the customary loss clause payable to any bank by whom advanced.

The purpose of this loan being to assist in the harvesting and orderly marketing of the crop, no loan will be made for a longer period than four months.

It is the consensus of opinion of those who have studied the cotton situation and it has been given careful consideration by the Federal Reserve Bank and by governmental agencies, according to officials of the Atlanta Bank, that the dumping of the crop this year during the ginning season would be injurious, not only to the cotton planter, but to the entire southern section. The lack of export demand and the conservative attitude of the American market, together with the fact that the cotton market has been depressed by the war between the states.

The resolution, which alleges that the imposition of the tax was in violation of the constitution of the United States, because not levied in accordance with the provisions thereof, provides for the distribution of the tax according to the amount paid by each state.

The governor and treasurer of the receiving states shall accept the apportionment as a trust fund to be paid over to the original payers of the tax or to the heirs at law, in cases where the original taxpayers are deceased, the resolution provides.

Further provisions call for the distribution of funds which may be unclaimed in the several state treasuries, among surviving Confederate soldiers, or to their widows, in the event their widows survive, or to their legal heirs, should there be no surviving widows of such deceased soldiers.

RECOVERY OF BODY IS VALUED AT $5

While the law books of the state carry a fee bill covering practically every species of service expected to be rendered in behalf of the state; and while the prison commission has issued a book of rules outlining every line of conduct required of law prisoners and prescribing every duty to be performed in their behalf while in the custody of the state, occasionally something new springs up which the law books have not provided for.

One of these conditions arose last Friday afternoon when one of the negro convicts, in bathing with the other members of the gang went to the bottom of the swimming hole at the Sinkhole bridge and was drowned. The body sank in ten feet of water. County officials and volunteer helpers made every effort to recover the body, and a large number of spectators gathered during the two hours the work of rescue was going on. Finally the body was located and it was necessary for someone to dive down to bring it up. George Scriven, the jitney man, was handy and a good diver. He went down and made the rescue. The bill he presented to County Commissioner Kennedy recited: "To services rendered in
